Thirteen seconds.

That's how long it took the London Lightning's Jermaine Johnson to score on a layup Thursday, give the Lightning a 2-0 lead and allow the boisterous crowd of 3,966 spectators to take a seat.

The early basket and the standing-until-London-scored crowd helped set the tone for the Lightning, who forced a Game 5 with a 113-101 victory in the wildly entertaining National Basketball League of Canada conference semifinal series.

The deciding game — the series is now tied 2-2 — will be on Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Powerade Centre.

Lightning head coach Micheal Ray Richardson said his team "really wanted it and it showed."

"This is playoff basketball. This is when you show who you really are. This is what makes you a great basketball player in moments like this."

The top scorer for the Lightning was Zane Johnson, who had 28 points, including 20 in the first half when he was 4-for-5 from the three-point range.

"We just played our brand of basketball. We locked them up on defence. We stuck to the game plan. We were physical with them the whole game," Johnson said.

He said the Lightning have "something to prove" in Game 5.

"We're going to go there and give the same effort as we did tonight. We haven't won there in a while," he said.

After the opening basket, the Lightning were relentless in the first quarter, scoring 35, only giving up 18 and shooting .667 from the floor.

It was attacking offence at its best and the sixth man — that would be the crowd — was more than along for the ride.

With Zane Johnson dropping 20 points, the Lightning led 56-41 at the half.

In the third it was more of the same for London, which even increased the lead to 24 points at one stage.

In addition to Zane Johnson, Tony Bennett helped out the London cause with 23 points and Jermaine Johnson added 19. Cedric Moodie had 17 points to lead the A's.

Minister, chamber agree on trade with S. Korea

Auto industry.

Concern from unions unwarranted, they say

SCOTT
TAYLOR

scott.taylor@metronews.ca

The local auto industry will benefit from the free-trade deal the federal government has signed with South Korea, International Trade Minister Ed Fast said Thursday.

Fast was in London to tour local industry and talk up the deal that has garnered some criticism from the provincial Liberal government and unions for not providing sufficient safeguards for the auto industry.

Fast said that criticism is ill-founded.

"Canada has trade agreements with 43 countries around the world. Unifor has not supported one of those trade agreements," Fast said. "So I don't believe Unifor has the credibility to speak on trade because they fundamentally oppose Canada expanding its trade relations around the world."

Fast stressed the Conservative government worked closely with the auto sector throughout negotiations with Korea and said he believes the outcome secures a bright future for the industry.

"I can tell you that in a number of key areas, as they relate to the auto sector, we have secured outcomes in these negotiations that are superior to those that the U.S. was able to achieve," he said.

London Chamber of Commerce CEO Gerry Macartney hailed the agreement as a catalyst for foreign investment to come to London and said pork, beef and egg producers are going to win because of it.

He also noted GM's support for the deal.

"When you get the largest car manufacturer in the world saying it's a good deal, there's got to be something behind it," Macartney said.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper and Minister of International Trade Ed Fast, at left of Harper, are hitting sites across Canada to tout the new trade deal with South Korea. Fast was in London on Thursday. THE CANADIAN PRESS

New trade deal

- South Korea boasts the world's 15th-largest economy and the fourth-largest in Asia.
- The Harper government claims its new trade deal will boost Canada's economy by $1.7 billion and increase Canadian exports to South Korea by 32 per cent.
- Once the agreement is fully implemented, Korea will remove duties on 98.2 per cent of its tariff lines, covering virtually all of Canada's imports.

- South Korea's population is about 50 million people.
- Since 1980, Korea's GDP has grown more than six-fold and experienced an average annual growth rate of 6.5 per cent.

Celebrate
St. Paddy's
Day in a
VIP way

Par-tay. Buses will carry more than 200 on Saturday

SCOTT
TAYLOR
scott.taylor@metronews.ca

Most of the city's nightspots will celebrate St. Patrick's Day on Monday, but those wanting to get a jump on things can jump on the bus Saturday.

Forget the unseasonably cold weather, says the man behind London's annual St. Patrick's Day Club Crawl.

Organizer Mike Funaro, 28, expects about 250 revelers to join in on what he describes as a St. Paddy's VIP experience — about double the number he hosted for the first go-around six years ago.

As of Thursday, he had six buses at the ready to transport the gang from one spot to another.

"Everyone meets at the first venue to get the VIP wristbands and they jump on buses that take them to each venue until they reach the last stop of the night," he said.

The rundown

- Tickets for the club crawl are $20 for people taking the bus, $15 for those who want to walk.
- More information can be found on the St. Patrick's Day Club/Pub Crawl 2014 London Ontario page on Facebook.

"So they bypass any line-ups, and they pay no cover."

Not everyone has to ride the bus. People who want to wander around on their own pay a little less but still get the royal treatment at the bars with everybody else.

Starting with a little more than 100 people, the event has grown each year, Funaro said.

"Our guests have never caused any issues," he said. "They just come out and have fun. Even when they're drinking, they've never caused one issue on the bus or anywhere."

The itinerary includes Jim Bob Ray's, Hideaway Nightclub and The Soundbar.

Party on: There will be plenty of green downtown days before St. Patrick's Day as the annual club crawl makes its way to area bars on Saturday. CONTRIBUTED

Attracting new business. Hold price of industrial land steady: City staff

Staff is recommending that London politicians hold the line on the price for land as the city tries to remain competitive in attracting new industry.

"Overall, the general industrial market for larger parcels in the southwest Ontario region is characterized as many motivated sellers, primarily municipalities, chasing a few buyers during a period of economic uncertainty," Bill Warner, manager of realty services, says in a report headed to city council next week. "A direct result is prices that are lower than those obtained in a more competitive market."

The price structure for city-owned industrial land was set in 2009, coming in at $75,000 an acre. That, Warner's report says, was the median price in 2013 for land in cities across the region.

In the comparison, Guelph's land is selling for the most at $300,000 per acre with Kitchener a close second at $250,000.

London has a little more than 306 acres of industrial land available for sale plus 69 acres under option.

Since 2001, 485 acres have been sold for $24.3 million. The biggest boom came in 2011 when about 100 acres were sold, including more than 60 for the Dr. Oetker pizza plant off Veterans Memorial Parkway and Bradley Avenue.

Last year, one buyer was under agreement for 60 acres of land, up from 10.5 acres sold in 2012. METRO

Tax revenue

Looking for new revenue tools. No tax hikes to pay for transit: Wynne

Premier Kathleen Wynne took steps Thursday to avoid a spring election by promising not to raise taxes on the middle class to fund public transit, but the opposition parties warned the Liberals could not be trusted to keep their word.

"I just want to be clear, we're taking those potential revenue tools off the table: increase in HST, increase in gas tax, increases in personal income tax for middle-income families," Wynne said at a campaign-style stop at a home in Toronto.

Wynne has vowed to find the "revenue tools" to raise the billions of dollars needed each year to upgrade and expand public transit in the heavily congested Toronto-Hamilton corridor, and an expert panel recommended several tax hikes as options.

The NDP had warned they would not support any moves to increase taxes on the middle class, but would not say Thursday if Wynne's promise was enough to get them to vote for the Liberal's upcoming budget and avoid a spring election.

"We're skeptical of the fact that this is another Liberal promise and we've seen many of their promises made and then broken," said New Democrat Jagmeet Singh. "We look at it with a grain of salt."

Kathleen Wynne
TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE FILE

The Progressive Conservatives, who have been warning voters that Wynne is planning to hike the gas tax 10 cents a litre to fund transit, said the Liberals promise one thing as an election approaches and then do the opposite afterwards.

Wynne had earlier eliminated the idea of raising property taxes to fund transit, and suggested Thursday she would not increase corporate taxes either, but left the door open to new road tolls.

Happy times. Snow, cold and more snow has left skiers rejoicing and put the folks at Boler Mountain on a recovery path from a tough 2013-14 season.

ANGELA MULLINS/METRO

Endless winter a Boler blessing

'An absolute, fantastic season.' After a couple of lean years, the snowy winter couldn't have come at a better time, said management

Quoted

"We went out on a limb last year making some improvement with the hope of a good season this year and it's great to have it."

Greg Strauss, a manager at Boler Mountain

Mother Nature is a hero in the real world of Boler Mountain.

After what the management team described as a challenging season last year, 2013-14 has been a dream come true.

A heavy mid-March snowstorm was the frosty icing on the cake Wednesday.

Greg Strauss laughed when asked if he was one of the only people in the area happy with the winter we've endured.

"I don't think there are too many people that wanted to see that snow yesterday, but it definitely helped us and freshened things up and put us in a good position to be having a strong finish to the season," he said Thursday.

After a couple of lean years, the snowy winter couldn't have come at a better time, he added.

"It's been an absolute fantastic season. It started early and it's going late and it's been solid in between, so we couldn't ask for anything better than that, that's for sure," he said.

Boler will be closed Mondays and Tuesdays as of next week but will open at 9 a.m. Wednesday through Sunday, hopefully, Strauss said, all the way into April.

First the snow, then record cold and wind

It was a day everyone outside of Boler Mountain would most likely want to forget.

With the second week of March nearly over, the city shivered through a record cold morning Thursday. The -17 C low broke a record that was set in 1926.

How long ago was that? Babe Ruth played for the Yankees, the Montreal Maroons won the Stanley Cup and the Ford Motor Company was still building the Model T.

Oh, and, by the way, the wind chill made it feel like it was -25 C.

The morning commute, meanwhile, was treacherous throughout the London region with many crashes reported on roads in and around the city.

Access to Highway 401 west of the 402 was closed for most of Thursday morning after an accident involving transport trucks.

Barley's Angels exploring a woman's world of beer

Downing drinks and doing good. Founder dismisses weak beer made 'just for women'

SCOTT
TAYLOR
scott.taylor@metronews.ca

It was a man's world for a long time, but now the beer sphere is seeing a growing population of women.

And they're not just knocking back a cold one after work. They're taking the time to become educated on what's out there past the standard case of Molson or Labatt.

That's one goal behind the new London chapter of Barley's Angels, an organization that seeks to sample new and unique beer, while doing some good in the community.

Purpose

"When we combine our strengths and our imaginations and encourage each other to explore new and exciting beers ... in a supportive environment, we learn more, we create more — and we have more fun."

Laura Campeau, founder of Barley's Angels

"I think that at first beer was promoted as a man's drink. It was (a man's) zone, and women, for so long, were less apt to go for a beer," said founder Laura Campeau, who added that 30 to 40 women are regulars at the club's gatherings. "Now brewing has entered a new realm.

"I think a lot of brewers are pursuing that female market and I think they're at fault if they're trying to make a beer that's just for women.

"Beer doesn't have a gender, and taste doesn't have a gender."

She said breweries for too long tried to win a woman's heart with fruity or light beers.

"If you think about it, women like a bold red wine, women like intense cheeses, so there's nothing about light and fruity that appeals to women."

Barley's Angels is more than just a social club, Campeau added. It's focused on beer education and giving women a supportive environment. In June, the group is planning a fundraiser called Cervezas 4 Cervixes.

The Canadian Cancer Society in Elgin-Middlesex is gearing up for its inaugural Colours of Hope 5K.

Building on the popularity of colour runs, the event starts at 10 a.m. Saturday outside the University Community Centre at Western.

Participants will be showered with coloured

Badgers want to be fenced in Strike. Organization trying to bowl its way to more funds

DAVE LANGFORD
dave.langford@metronews.ca

The London Badgers baseball teams are attempting to find a way to keep their batting cages at Stronach Park in place and the vandals away.

But they need money to do so.

So president Mike Lumley and the Badgers organization are launching the first Badger Bowl-A-Thon on April 27 at Fleetway Bowl. The goal is to raise $10,000 to permanently fence in the two cages at Norm Aldridge Field.

"It started last fall when some kids started going up on top of the cages, and they ended up using it as a trampoline," Lumley said. "The cages aren't closed up, and they are all netted."

Lumley said the cages are used regularly for 110 players in the program as well as during special events.

They've been repaired several times, but the group of kids doing the damage return as often as "every other day," he said.

Lumley said they have even caught the kids.

"What are we going to do to them? It's usually the same group of 10 to 12 kids all around 10 or 12 years old. We can't do anything," he said, adding that a fence will help.

Jobs creation. Provincial government announces $1 million in funding

A nearly $1-million investment in three southwest Ontario businesses will create 46 new jobs and support an existing 176.

Eric Hoskins, minister of economic development, trade and employment, was in St. Thomas on Thursday to announce the latest round of the money from the Southwestern Ontario Development Fund.

Eric Hoskins

The dollars will be shared among Railway City Brewing and Lumar Machining and Manufacturing, both in St. Thomas, and Cooper-Standard Automotive Canada's site in Glencoe.

Railway City will see $122,630 as it renovates a 13,500-square-foot industrial building to expand bee production. The money will, among other things, go toward new equipment and allow for more retail space. Twelve jobs will be created.

Lumar's share of the pie will be $374,472 to help with renovations on a 25,000-square-foot building. The end result will be increased production and eight new jobs at the machine shop.

The government's giving Cooper-Standard $489,833 to launch a new product line, creating 26 jobs. The company specializes in metal- and rubber-based products for the automotive industry.

Hoskins' announcement comes two weeks after Premier Kathleen Wynne was in London to formally give $1 million from the development fund to Brose. The company, which makes seating systems for cars, has added 20 new jobs.

Since October 2012, the government has committed $36 million from the fund to create about 9,000 jobs, officials say. METRO

Backbencher quits, calls Redford a bully

Disrespectful? Former cabinet minister under Stelmach says it's 'the way she treats people'

Alleged temper tantrums

"She's just really not a nice lady."

Len Webber, Alberta MLA

A backbencher has announced he is leaving Alberta Premier Alison Redford's caucus because he can no longer work with her.

Len Webber told reporters in Calgary on Thursday that Redford is a disrespectful bully who throws temper tantrums and flies into fits of rage.

"I can no longer sit as a government member. I cannot return to work and sit on the same side as long as Alison Redford is sitting at the helm."

Redford offered "no reaction" to Webber's comments as she left the building where the Tory caucus was meeting Thursday.

Deputy premier, Dave Hancock, said the caucus stands behind its leader.

Crimean referendum prompts West to increase threats against Russia

Crisis in Ukraine.
Gov't and Western allies warn Russia against trying to annex strategic peninsula

Russia conducted new military manoeuvres near its border with Ukraine on Thursday, and President Vladimir Putin said the world shouldn't blame his country for what he called Ukraine's "internal crisis."

In Crimea, where the public will vote on Sunday whether to break away from Ukraine and become part of Russia, jittery residents lined up at their banks to withdraw cash from their accounts amid uncertainty over the future of the peninsula, which Russian troops now control.

U.S. Secretary of State John Kerry and Russian Foreign Minister Sergey Lavrov plan to meet in London on Friday in a last-ditch bid to end the standoff over the Crimean referendum, which Ukraine and the West have rejected as illegitimate.

In Berlin, German Chancellor Angela Merkel sharply criticized Russia, saying the territorial integrity of Ukraine cannot be compromised.

Speaking to Germany's parliament, Merkel said Russia risks "massive" political and economic consequences, if it does not enter into "negotiations that achieve results" over the situation in Ukraine.

If Moscow does not begin to "de-escalate" the situation, Merkel said, the 28 European Union nations, the U.S. and other allies are prepared to take even stronger measures such as freezing bank accounts of Russians and implementing travel restrictions that would hit Russia economically.

On Wednesday, Moscow rejected the Ukrainian government's claim that a massive Russian military buildup near the countries' border was raising the threat of a possible invasion.

But on Thursday Russia's Defence Ministry announced that thousands of Russian troops in their regions of Rostov, Belgorod, Kursk and Tambov bordering Ukraine are involved in the exercises, which will continue until the end of the month.

Putin, who has received his parliament's permission to use the Russian military in Ukraine, has warned that he reserves the right to "use all means" to protect Russian speakers in Ukraine from violent nationalists, even though there have been no signs they are facing such a threat.

The minister says Ukraine seems to have enough money to keep afloat for a few months, giving the international community time to work out some solutions.

More bodies pulled from N.Y. blast site

Harlem disaster. Mayor hopes to 'find others still alive' as rescue workers search overnight through smouldering wreckage

Rescuers working amid cold, gusty winds and billowing smoke pulled four additional bodies overnight from the rubble of two Manhattan apartment buildings, as the death toll rose Thursday to at least seven from a gas leak-triggered explosion that reduced the area to a pile of smashed bricks, splinters and mangled metal.

The explosion Wednesday morning in East Harlem injured more than 60 people, with searchers still trying to locate others a day later. Mayor Bill de Blasio said Thursday that the city was "hoping to find others still alive" and then "to determine exactly what happened here."

Crews used generator-powered floodlights and thermal imaging cameras to identify heat spots — bodies or pockets of fire — at the site. Police guarding the scene wore masks and neighbourhood residents covered faces with scarfs amid the thick, acrid air.

Construction equipment with iron jaws picked up the smouldering debris, first depositing it on the pavement, then hoisting it onto trucks that hauled it away. The debris included structural beams, pieces of windows and residents' belongings.

Malaysia Airlines. Search widens for missing plane

Malaysian authorities expanded their search for a missing plane westward toward India on Thursday, saying it may have flown for several hours after its last contact with the ground.

That scenario would make finding the Boeing 777 a vastly more difficult task, and raises the possibility that searchers have been looking in the wrong place for the plane and its 239 passengers and crew since it disappeared early Saturday.

Search planes were sent Thursday to search an area off the southern tip of Vietnam where Chinese satellite images showed three suspected floating objects, but they saw only ocean.

"There is nothing. We went there, there is nothing," said acting Malaysian Transport Minister Hishammuddin Hussein. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

China. Police arrest man who runs rights website

Police in China on Thursday took away a veteran activist who runs a rights monitoring website, and seized his computers and mobile phones, the campaigner's mother said.

Eleven police officers turned up at Huang Qi's home in the city of Chengdu and produced a summons for Huang before taking him away, said his mother, Pu Wenqing.

Huang founded a rights monitoring website and has long been one of China's most outspoken advocates for the rights of people who try to bring their grievances to the attention of the government but often face police harassment. He served a five-year prison sentence starting in 2003 on subversion charges linked to politically sensitive articles posted on his site.

Marijuana job fair stokes high level of interest in Denver

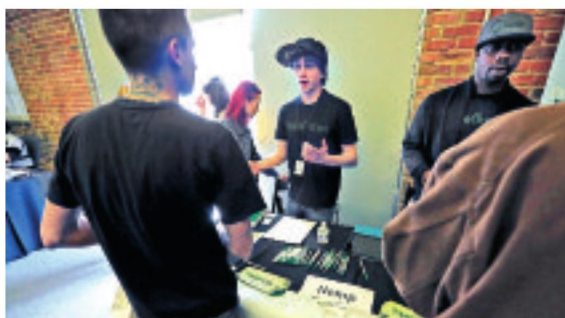

Homegrown demand.

Line of job applicants snaked around corner as legal pot business lights up big profits

When Tim Cullen was opening his first marijuana business four years ago, the high school biology teacher-turned-pot entrepreneur struggled to get resumes and references from job applicants.

"Everyone's experience was on the black market," Cullen said. Now, he said, "it's come out of the closet."

Out of the closet, down the street and around the corner. That's where the line of hopefuls stretched Thursday outside a central Denver office building that was hosting a marijuana industry job fair.

Cullen, who owns two retail marijuana shops and is a partner in a company that makes hash oil and another that makes vaporizers, was among representatives from about a dozen businesses reviewing applications.

O.penVAPE, Cullen's vaporizers company, organized the fair to meet its own growing staffing needs and help others in the industry, said company spokesman Todd Mitchem.

THE WORLD ACCORDING TO KEVIN BACON

1 #whileTwitterwasdown. Twitter went down briefly Tuesday, but it felt like an eternity to users. By the time it came back, #whileTwitterwasdown was trending with gems like, "I tried to get real people on the street to follow me, but they just wouldn't. Elites probably," and "I was promoted at work, made six friends, and started a family." All I did was write six books, three of which were adapted to the big screen.

2 First kiss. A beautiful video of 20 strangers meeting and kissing for the first time went viral, with more than 20 million views. When people found out it was actually a fashion film by the label Wren, it didn't really dampen spirits. After all, it really was strangers kissing. And the vid really was beautiful. Plus, we're used to product endorsements on everything.

3 Bachelor finale. The finale had the narcissistic Juan Pablo trending for being such a self-serving idiot. Even his parents warned Clare and Nikki about him. In the end, he sort of picked Nikki. But we all know that the person Juan Pablo loves the most in the world is himself. That's who he should have proposed to: Juan Pablo.

4 Funny or Die. To promote his health-care plan, President Obama sat down for an interview with actor Zach Galif-anakis on his comedy web series Between Two Ferns on Funny or Die. Boy did it work. White House senior communications adviser Tara McGuinness tweeted "FunnyorDie.com is the #1 source of referrals to HealthCare.gov right now." Laughter really is the best medicine.

5 Strombo. Hockey Night in Canada named him as their primary host and anchor, taking over from Ron MacLean, who will have a diminished role next year. Lost in the hoopla was the announcement Strombo's terrific show George Stroumboulopoulos Tonight will be cancelled at season's end. I will miss it big time.

6 #AskBaird. Canada's Foreign Minister John Baird hosted a live Twitter chat where you could ask him questions. This was refreshing for season's end. I will miss it big time.

a politician to be this transparent in real time about what Canada is doing on the international stage. Baird was self-deprecating, saying in one tweet, "suggest trying someone else for cooking & fashion tips."

7 Kevin Bacon. A YouTube video titled Kevin Explains the '80s to Millennials garnered nearly two million views as a straight-faced Bacon tried to explain what the '80s and its VCRs and parachute pants meant. "You want to know my favourite app? Rubik's Cube," Bacon says. Google that, millennials, to find out what it is.

8 Jack Bauer. It was announced the iconic character will be coming back to TV four years after the series finale. This time Jack is an exiled ex-CIA agent who has to prevent the assassination of the U.S. president — and prevent a world war. Yes, life is never easy for Jack Bauer. But it is for Kiefer Sutherland.

9 Daylight saving time. The first week adjusting to daylight saving is always a nag, but all the more so when the most famous mayor in the world — yes, Mayor Ford — tweets out "Daylight saving time starts this evening, turn your clocks back and change batteries in smoke alarms." For the rest of this year, Ford will be two hours behind the rest of the world.

10 22-pound house cat attacks. It read like an Onion article — a 911 call was placed by a family whose 22-pound Himalayan cat, Lux, who had a "history of violence," was holding them "hostage" inside their bedroom after attacking their baby. Don't worry: The police caught the grumpy cat after it attempted "to flee custody" by climbing on top of the fridge.

11 www. Remember when the telephone turned 25? The radio? The TV? I don't either. But I will remember when the World Wide Web did — March 12, 2014. Seriously though, can you believe it's already been around a quarter-century? Before we know it, Twitter will seem ancient when we're beaming around space tweeting our adventures.

metres is how long the venomous tendrils of a Portuguese man-of-war can extend to — that's roughly four lengths of an average-sized city bus. Ten metres is the average length for this seafaring creature's appendages. The tendrils' venom-filled capsules, or nematocysts, are capable of paralyzing and killing fish, and on rare occasions humans. Some people have described a sting from the man-of-war as a feeling like being struck by a lightning bolt.

Blob tag

- Biology. Despite its appearance, the Portuguese man-of-war (Physalia physalis) is neither a jellyfish nor even a single animal. It's actually a siphonophore, a floating colony of multiple organisms working in symbiosis with each other.
- Structure. It comprises four individual polyps (or organisms): one forming a gas-filled bladder that floats on the sea surface and looks like an old warship (by which the creature gets its nautical name), one that catches small fish with its long tendrils, and two others that are in charge of digestion and reproduction.

- Habitat. Found in groups of 1,000, floating in warm waters throughout the world's oceans.

Synopsis

Based on the most successful racing video game franchise ever, Need for Speed is Aaron "Breaking Bad" Paul's first lead in a feature. He plays Tobey Marshall, a speed-demon mechanic, jailed for a crime he did not commit. Out of prison with revenge against adversary Dino Brewster (Dominic Cooper) on his mind, he finagles a spot at the De Leon, a high-octane underground race that makes the Cannonball Run look like a Go-Kart sprint. You just know it's only a matter of time until someone says, "We'll settle this behind the wheel." Between him and the race, however, are miles of hard road, bounty hunters and police. Steve Gow sits in for Mark Breslin this week.

The cars are the stars

Need for Speed. Action-packed racing tale based on a video game not one for the intellectual crowd

Richard: Steve, remember the Mazda commercials that were on a few years ago? I felt like the kid from those ads was sitting on my shoulder whispering "zoom, zoom" into my ear for the entire running time of The Hot Wheels Movie, er... Need for Speed. This is a fast paced car race movie that zips along as quickly as you'd hope a movie with the word speed in the title would, but character wise, it's not quite as fast or furious as you might like. The cars are the stars, while the characters are largely left in the dust. What did you think?

SG: Yes, the way they're upstaged by the racing sequences, the term "vehicular manslaughter" could easily apply to the actors. Sure, Aaron Paul showed us he had chops in Breaking Bad but that only makes the choice of playing a gravelly-voiced, vengeance-seeking street car racer all the more curious. After all, as much as Need For Speed tries to design depth in its characters, nobody in the thriller rises above conveniently routine. Or all that interesting.

RC: I liked the race scenes. They feel authentic and by and large done by brave speed demon stunt drivers without the use of CGI. They're exciting, pedal-to-the-metal sequences that put the audience in the driver's seat. You have to wonder about glorifying the romance of reckless street racing, but the movie isn't a commercial for vehicular mayhem. There are some wild rides, but there are also consequences for many of the drivers and their need for speed. I just wish the characters were stronger. It says something when the movie's most interesting character — the eccentric millionaire the Monarch, played by Michael Keaton — never gets behind the wheel of a car.

SG: He was definitely working the same oddball over-the-top angles as Nicolas Cage. Imogen Poots (That Awkward Moment) was appealing enough as a British assistant of the car's owner who hitchhikes along with Paul for the nationwide ride. However, I couldn't help thinking how contrived the entire plot was. Then again, I suppose that shouldn't be surprising considering the story was culled from a video game — albeit a very successful video game.

RC: Need for Speed isn't Downton Abbey. It's a car crazy story where characters take a backseat to the action, but if you know what a Two Lane Grasshopper is, then you'll probably get a kick out of the driving scenes.

SG: This movie definitely isn't for graduates of Juilliard's drama program. It's for high-octane gearheads who want to stuff their faces with over-buttered popcorn and watch innocent bystanders and cops get taken out in the careless (cut cunningly choreographed) act of illegal street racing. It does a fine job there but I'm not sure I'll remember much else about Need for Speed by tomorrow morning.

Nothing too Divergent

Plenty of parallels.

Young actor Theo James talks about the story's mass appeal with young people

RICHARD CROUSE
scene@metronews.ca

The new young adult movie Divergent declares, "The future belongs to those who know where they belong."

In the film, a Big Brother style government has divided the post-apocalyptic Chicago into five factions: the altruistic Abnegation sect, the peace loving Amity, the "I cannot tell a lie" Candor group, the militaristic arm Dauntless and the smarty-pants Erudite.

In the middle of this muddle is Four, played by Theo James, a Dauntless warrior with a sensitive side. He's a mentor of sorts and love interest to Tris (Shailene Woodley), a 16-year-old who has recently pledged to Dauntless. During her grueling training, Four helps her disguise the fact that she is "divergent," a person who cannot be pigeonholed into just one designation.

James, the English-born star, beat out half of young Hollywood for the role, which was made popular in the wildly successful Divergent series of books. Sales of more than five million copies puts the novels into Hunger Games territory, but why are they so popular with teens? "I think there are two things to summarize it," says James, a philosophy graduate from the University of Nottingham.

Theo James stars in Divergent, which opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

"One, on a generalist level, it's a good story to be able to be involved in in the same way as some others in the genre are. The faction system is a good thing for young people to grab hold of because they can question themselves. They can say, 'Which one would I be in?' There are cliques in high school, and it has those kinds of ramifications.

"Then there is the college era, being in Dauntless and then choosing what kind of job you're going to go into. It has those fun things to be able to latch on to.

"On top of that there is the fantasy level of being in a world which is relatable because it is Chicago. You can see these landmarks, so it makes sense, but then it is the future so there is something more fantastic about it. As a result of that, there is also a deeper world you can step into.

"Then, you wonder about the generation now. Growing up they are constantly hearing the conversation about depleting resources and all these kind of environmental things.

"Not to say that everyone is partaking in it, but you can't get away from it so they're hearing, 'Oh, the population is massive. China is two billion; we're not going to have enough resources by this time. Look at India.' As a result they are questioning the future and are questioning how they will be in the future and how their kids will be, so maybe it is kind of a relatable fantasy."

In Fear

Director. Jeremy Lovering

Stars. Iain De Caestecker, Alice Englert

In Fear is a tense psychological horror about a young couple's fight to make it through the night. Home invasion but in a car. In real-time, Tom (De Caestecker) and Lucy (Englert) are trapped in a maze of country roads with only their vehicle for protection, terrorized by an unseen tormentor hell-bent on exploiting their worst fears.

Woodley got the OK from Lawrence for Divergent role

MELINDA

Metro World News

In any career, it's best to find yourself a mentor when you're just starting out — someone who's been where you are and can advise you. However, if that career is "starring in a blockbuster trilogy based on bestselling books about a brave young girl thrust into a world of dystopian violence," your mentorship options are limited. To, oh, one other person.

Divergent star Shailene Woodley didn't let that stop her — she reached out to her young-adult-adaptation forebear, Jennifer Lawrence, before agreeing to star in Divergent. "I asked Jennifer Lawrence, 'Are you happy with your choice to take on The Hunger Games?'" Woodley revealed to Teen Vogue. "And she said she wouldn't change it for the world. She told me, 'There are some things — don't make a sex tape, don't do drugs, don't do things in public — that you wouldn't want other people judging you for. But this is the best decision you'll ever make.'"

Naya Rivera

Avert your eyes, Glee fans — this could be the final curtain for Naya Rivera

Musical TV series Glee has one more season to go, starting next fall, before its final curtain call, but is Naya Rivera not planning to make it that far? Rivera, a member of the original cast who is now part of the show's New York-set storyline, posted a Tweet about working with former cast-member Heather Morris that included a rather cryptic hashtag. "On set with Glee shooting a very sweet Brit/Santana scene! #starttogether-endogether," she wrote. And while discussing the plans for moving the series completely to New York for the final season, co-star

Lea Michele left Rivera's name out while talking to E! News, saying, "It's New York now. So it's me and Chris Colfer and Darren Criss and Chord Overstreet and Kevin McHale." Sources at the show have not yet confirmed who will and who will not be a part of the final season.

Kirsten Dunst ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Someone's sad to see Dunst and Hedlund's relationship in full Bloom

Things are getting serious between Kirsten Dunst and longtime boyfriend Garrett Hedlund — and that's apparently a problem for Orlando Bloom, who briefly dated his Elizabethtown co-star. "Kirsten wants to marry Garrett, and she was shocked when Orlando reached out to her and ripped Garrett apart for his hard-partying, bad boy ways," a source tells Radar Online. "Orlando was basically acting like a jealous boyfriend even though he hasn't been involved with Kirsten for years, and Kirsten called him out on it." Dunst and Hedlund met while filming On the Road and have been dating steadily since 2012. "Kirsten's pals believe she's found a real soul mate in Garrett, and her work and outlook on life have improved dramatically since they've been together," the source says. "They wonder why Orlando is trying to spoil her good time." Those pals do at least have some theories, though: "Orlando is in a bad place in his career and has seen roles he wanted slip away to hunkier younger actors like Garrett," the source offers. "Orlando's catty behaviour with Kirsten and Garrett is likely to continue until his career improves. But Kirsten isn't letting anyone get between her and Garrett."

Robin plays good father as cancelled shows mount up

Robin Thicke took some time out from his tour over the weekend and flew to Vancouver to spend time with estranged wife Paula Patton and their son, Julian, according to E! News. The recently separated pair seemed in good spirits, laughing together as Julian played at a playground. But maybe the trip didn't go as well as Thicke hoped it would, as he went on to cancel yet another show — this one at Ontario's Casino Rama — due to "unforeseen vocal issues," something that's plagued his tour since his split from Patton was announced. But he

Even though St. Patrick's Day isn't until Monday, I'm betting many of you will get the party started tonight and sashay your shillelagh into next week.

Since a quarter of Peter Rockwell comes from the Emerald Isle, I like a pint of green beer as much as the next semi-Irish guy. What the day really brings home to me is the volume of classic booze brands that call Ireland home.

Think Jameson whiskey, Baileys Irish Cream liqueur and, for the beer fans, Murphy's, Harp, and, of course, Guinness. All from a country that's just slightly larger than the province of New Brunswick. While you could choose any one of those (or a combo of a few) to toast St. Paddy, the real mover and shaker in Ireland is cider. No longer a simple summer sipper; the cider category has become a force to be reckoned with.

Cider (500 ml, $3.15 - $4.40) balances its apple goodness with a crisp, effervescence that's perfect with a celebratory serving of lamb stew, shepherd's pie or corn beef and cabbage. PRICES REFLECT RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

There won't be a hockey sweep in Sochi.

Declan Farmer had two goals and an assist Thursday as the United States defeated Canada 3-0 in the sledge hockey semifinals at the Paralympic Winter Games.

It's a bitter pill to swallow for the Canadians, who were trying to become the first country to win the men's, women's and sledge hockey tournaments at an Olympic and Paralympic Games.

"We were tight. There's no secret that we weren't making crisp, on-the-tape passes, and that hurt us. At the same time, we had our chances," said Canadian captain Greg Westlake. "It seemed like we'd have this 10-bell chance at their end and then they'd come back and the puck would end up in our net."

Joshua Pauls added a goal and an assist for the U.S., while Steve Cash made 11 saves to get the shutout.

The Americans will face Russia in Saturday's gold-medal game at Shayba Arena after the hosts defeated Norway 4-0 in Thursday's other semifinal.

Corbin Watson stopped seven shots for Canada, which will play Norway for bronze on Saturday.

Gold medallists in 2006, Canada was also looking to avenge a disappointing fourth-place finish on home soil in Vancouver in 2010 and was perfect through three round-robin games, outscoring the opposition 15-1.

But on a night where nothing seemed to go their way, the Canadians failed to convert numerous chances in front of Cash, a trend that started in their 1-0 victory over the Czech Republic on Tuesday.

The Americans will play for gold for a second straight Paralympics after winning the tournament four years ago.

The U.S. was upset by Russia 2-1 in their final group game here to set up the semifinal against their bitter rivals.

Canada came in having won the 2013 world championship and world sledge hockey challenge — with both victories coming over the U.S. — but lost two of three exhibition meetings with the Americans in the lead-up to the Paralympics. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Western basketball

Vaughan named all-Canadian

Western Mustangs guards Jenny Vaughan and Mackenzie Puklicz picked up a pair of Canadian honours Thursday as Vaughan was named a CIS first team all-Canadian and Puklicz earned a spot on the all-rookie team.

Vaughan, from Dundas, Ont., set an OUA single-season scoring record in 2013-14 as her 506 points topped the previous record of 499 set by Laurentian's Cassandra Carpenter in 2005-06. Vaughan's 23.0 points-per-game was the second-highest average in the CIS.

Puklicz, a Londoner, earned a spot on the CIS all-rookie team after becoming the first Mustang since 2005-06 to claim the OUA West rookie-of-the-year award. METRO

Ex-Mustang signs with Lions

Canadian defensive tackle Vaughn Martin is a little closer to home.

Chad Speck, Martin's agent, tweeted Thursday morning the former Western Mustangs star had agreed to terms with the Detroit Lions. The six-foot-four, 297-pound Martin began last season with the Miami Dolphins but appeared in three games before being released with a sports hernia.

The San Diego Chargers selected Martin in the fourth round, No. 113 overall, in the 2009 NFL draft, making him the first Canadian underclassman to be selected in the draft.

Media reports say a Canadian junior hockey player whose body was found in Michigan this week died from asphyxiation, which police believe to have been self-inflicted.

The reports say autopsy results for Terry Trafford, 20, were released Thursday — two days after the missing athlete was found in an SUV in the parking lot of a Walmart store in Saginaw Township.

Trafford, who played for the Saginaw Spirit, had last been seen about 9:30 a.m. on March 3 at the Dow Event Center, the team's home arena.

Brief break

The Ontario Hockey League postponed the Spirit's game on Wednesday so the team could mourn his death. The team will resume its season Friday in Sault Ste. Marie.

At one point in the search, police said they believed Trafford, a centre with the Spirit, might have left the state to return to his hometown of Toronto.

His girlfriend previously told The Saginaw News that he was devastated after the team sent him home "for partying on a road trip."

Trafford had been living with team president Craig Goslin and the News reported Thursday that Goslin told a news conference that "none of us saw this coming."

"Everybody around Terry that loved him — the coaches, the players, former players, his billets — none of us ever saw any sign of depression," Goslin said. "If he had depression, he certainly had it hidden pretty deep." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nam Nguyen of Toronto is in first place in men's competition after Thursday's short program at the ISU world junior figure skating championships.

Nguyen, 15, earned 72.87 points with Jin Boyang of China second at 71.51 and Uno Shoma of Japan third at 70.67.

"The short program felt awesome," said Nguyen, who is coached by former Canadian skating star Brian Orser. "I was feeling very relaxed throughout the whole program. I took one element at a time and that really paid off."

The highlight was landing the triple Axel.

"The triple Axel felt really big," he said. "I think it was one of the best ones I've ever done, especially in competition. So it was really good that I was able to deliver it out here."

Nguyen won't change a thing for the free skate.

"I'm looking forward to delivering the same performance and to just keep doing what I do in practice," he said.

Roman Sadovsky of Vaughan, Ont., had a personal best short program and sits 14th.

NFL free agency

Revis, Sproles find new homes

Darrelle Revis and Darren Sproles found landing spots in the Northeast. Now Steve Smith and James Harrison look for new NFL homes.

Revis's stay in Tampa Bay was short, and he might not be in New England much longer. After less than a year as a Buccaneer, he was cut Wednesday and officially agreed to terms with the Patriots on Thursday — but only on a one-year deal, albeit worth about $12 million.

The 28-year-old shutdown cornerback, whose contract impasses have led him from the Jets to the Bucs to the Patriots since last April, was the latest big name on the move. Versatile running back-kick returner Sproles will add some juice to Philadelphia's already high-energy offence after he was acquired from New Orleans. And someone will grab veteran Smith after the standout wide receiver was released by Carolina.

Zelinka just a few hurdles from return to heptathlon

Track and field. Canadian Olympic record-holder to race Saturday in Montreal

Jessica Zelinka trains at the track alone every day, with a big binder as her companion.

The 32-year-old has a new home and a new coach, and is returning to the heptathlon this season after a taking a year off from the gruelling event and competing only in hurdles.

Zelinka moved to Montreal in the fall, hiring Cliff Rovelto of Kansas State University as her coach.

They've seen each other only three times so far, leaving Zelinka to follow her carefully planned daily workouts from her thick binder. But it's an arrangement that works, she said.

"I'm always at the track on my own, doing my thing, looking at my binder for references," she said. "It has all the warmups and drills and cooldowns and circuits."

"Every day, every single thing I do that day (is written out). I just need to do it, it's a no-brainer."

The London, Ont., native will run the 60-metre hurdles at the AC Indoor Open on Saturday at Montreal's Centre Claude-Robillard, then continue preparations for her return to the heptathlon.

Zelinka and her family — husband Nathaniel Miller and daughter Anika, who turns five in May — spent last season living in Connecticut. Miller, a retired Olympian in water polo, accepted a job there coaching. But training south of the border was tough on Zelinka, who was writing her own training programs, sometimes making it up as she went along.

Zelinka and Miller were keen to move back to Canada and when a job with the Canadian Olympic Committee opened up in Montreal, Miller's hometown, they jumped at the opportunity.

Rovelto, a multi-events and jumps specialist, will travel to Italy for Zelinka's season-opening heptathlon in early May. The event will be her first heptathlon in more than a year as the Canadian record holder competed in only hurdles last season to take a break from the seven-event discipline.

Zelinka has her sights set on the Commonwealth Games in July in Glasgow, where she hopes to do both the hurdles and the heptathlon.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

Because Mars, your ruler, is on good form today, something will happen that has you jumping for joy. Make plans for your professional future but leave yourself some wiggle room in case you want to change your mind.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Use your imagination today. This is a great time for trying new things, especially on the work front where, if you show you are able to adapt quickly to changing circumstances, you could be promoted.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Your mind may be full of ideas but for best results you need to focus on the things that will be of most benefit to you. No matter how many ideas you have your energy is limited.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Let the world know what you are thinking. Some important people will be listening to what you have to say today and if they like what they hear it won't be long before the offers start coming in.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Are you promising more than you can deliver? Maybe, but your confidence is so high at the moment that the thought of failure does not cross your mind, which in turn makes success more likely.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You will be tempted to take a risk today and because your ruler Mercury is nicely linked to Mars, planet of action and energy, you may well pull it off.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

If you feel the need to brag about your success, go ahead. It's not often you make noise about how well you've done, so once in a while it's OK.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

This is a good day to take care of the little things that need doing at home and at work. Don't set yourself any grand targets, just get the small stuff done and leave the grand design to sort itself out.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You have so many options available to you now that it may be hard to know where to start. For best results you should spend as much time as possible in social situations.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

If someone tries to pressure you into doing something you don't approve of today, you must turn them down flat. Yes, you may owe them for favours but conscience comes first.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

With Mercury in your sign linked to Mars your mind will move fast, so fast in fact that it may take a while for the rest of you to catch up! Be careful you don't exhaust yourself — something that can happen to your mind and your body.

Pisces

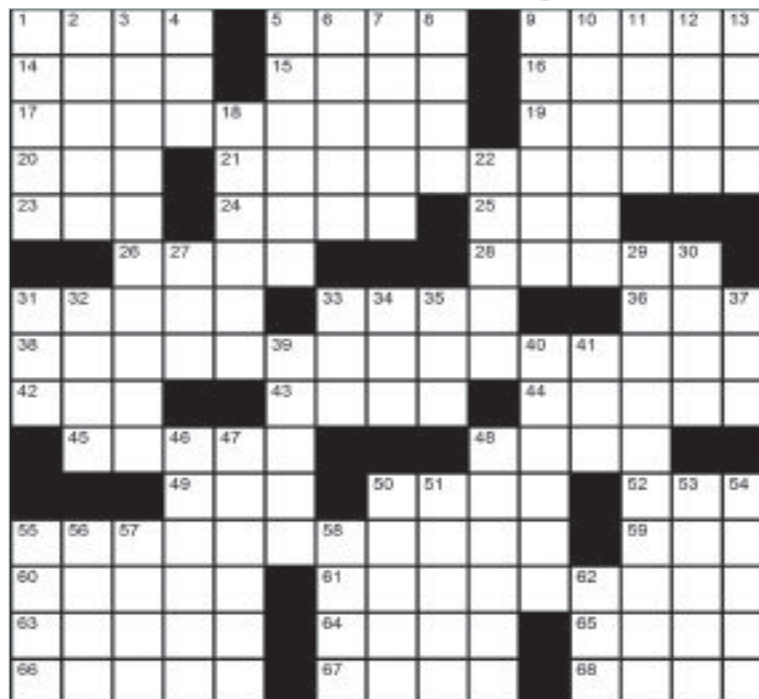

Feb. 20 - March 20

There are signs that something you have dreamed of for months is getting closer and very soon will be your reality. Remember: the more you believe that you deserve success the quicker success is likely to arrive. SALLY BROMPTON
